Mandatory Training for 2020 New Jersey Student Learning Assessments (NJSLA)

Each year, the New Jersey Department of Education (NJDOE) requires that all District Test Coordinators and District Technology Coordinators attend one all-day training session focused on the New Jersey Student Learning Assessment (NJSLA) in English language arts, mathematics and science. All participants must be present for the entire training session. This memo provides districts with training dates and registration instructions for the mandatory training.

Training Content

The training will focus on policies and procedures for administration of the NJSLA. Some of the topics will include:

- Scheduling and testing site requirements
- Updates to accessibility features and accommodations
- Updates to materials and tools
- Student registration and placement
- Securely handling materials and post-testing
- Resources and contacts

Registration Instructions

District Test Coordinators and District Technology Coordinators may register through January 31, 2020 for the mandatory NJSLA training.

To ensure that representatives from every district and participating Approved Private Schools for Students with Disabilities have the opportunity to attend the training, the NJDOE will strictly enforce the following registration protocols:

1. The first registration period is only for two individuals per district – District Test Coordinator and District Technology Coordinator. These individuals must register by January 31, 2020.
2. School Test Coordinators, space permitting, will be able to register from February 1, 2020 through February 14, 2020 as indicated below:
 - a) Districts with up to five schools may register only one School Test Coordinator.
 - b) Districts with six or more schools may register no more than three School Test Coordinators.

Participants must register online. Upon completing the online registration form, participants will receive a confirmation code, and must bring this code to the training.

Only confirmed registrants for a specific training session are guaranteed admission to that session.

This process will be enforced to ensure training sites do not exceed seating capacity and that all District Test Coordinators and District Technology Coordinators have the opportunity to register. Individuals serving in these roles must provide turn-key training to all school-level staff involved with testing who are not required to attend the regional training.
